From the conception of the idea, to the actual typing and composing the material for two years eight months two weeks and two days, by the time the last sentence of this book was inked, it took me about three years to bring this project to life and that undertaking would certainly be much more difficult if it were not for the help of the nice people whom I met on Quora.

I would like to extend my gratitude to Dr. Alon Amit, Dr. David Joyce and Dr. Senia Sheydvasser for finding the time in their busy schedules to always be kind, courteous and to the point with their replies to my occasional inquires.

Thank you, gentlemen, very much and it was an honor.

A special round of thanks goes to Steve Powell for staying with the project for all these years.

With a characteristic British laconism that we all know and love, Steve kept me honest and on my toes by providing invaluable and indispensable technical advice, suggestions and corrections as we went along.

Steve would point out the exact place where I messed things up or gave a convoluted line of reasoning, at which point I would go back to the drawing board and re-work a proof or two, come up with a cleaner path and reiterate.

Many times, after typing in a discussion, I would walk away from it, let it idly sit there for a few days and then come back to and trawl the text line-by-line with the-Steve-goggles on.

Thank you, Steve.

It was an honor and a pleasure.

Thank you to Travis Brauer for providing useful suggestions and corrections as well.

Towards the end of the project Nicolás Miari gave me several very insightful recommendations - I really appreciate your help, Nicolás, thank you.

Thank you to the notable Quora authors who stopped by and gave me their vote of confidence, Dr. Alon Amit, Alan Bustany, Pablo Emanuel, John Gould, Dr. Nathan Hannon, Dr. David Joyce, Dr. Eric Platt, and Dr. Sittinger.

Thank you to Eric Platt for providing the encouraging comments.

Thank you to Pablo Emanuel for using this text as a motivation for the creation of his wonderful "In The Beginning There Was Chaos" Quora space which I can only highly recommend for visiting because the dynamical systems interpretation of many problems in mathematics and physics provides deep(er) insights into the local subject matter.

If I forgot to mention your name and you did help me with the above space then I apologize and I extend my thanks to you as well and of course.

In other words, it takes a village and thank you to all and everyone.
